

STOCKHOLM, 12 – 14 June 2022

Declaration*

This amendment of the BSPC Rules of Procedure is caused by the completely unjustified, unprovoked, and full-scale brutal military attack and invasion by the Russian Federation against the sovereignty, independence and people of Ukraine.

This violation of international law and human rights, as the United Nations also described it, violates all the core principles of our cooperation as adopted in several BSPC resolutions.

It must be possible for anyone who so blatantly violates the fundamentals of our cooperation to be suspended or even expelled from the cooperation. Such a violation removes the otherwise usual procedural requirement of the unanimity principle for substantive decisions.

In full awareness that this is a historically unique situation that cannot be expected to occur a second time, the BSPC has deemed the following amendment to its Rules of Procedure necessary. The BSPC has decided to enact this amendment to ensure that this procedure is clearly regulated in the Statutes and Rules of Procedure of the BSPC in the future. In particular, the rules already in force for observers will also be applied to members expressis verbis.

The 31st BSPC decided to publish this declaration in conjunction with the new BSPC Statutes and Rules of Procedure, agreed by the 31st BSPC*

- democratic values,
- the rule of law,

- human rights,
- peaceful neighbourliness,
- respect for international law,
- a resilient civil society and robust NGOs.

1.3 The mission of the BSPC is to raise awareness of and provide opinions on issues of current political interest and relevance for the Baltic Sea Region;

to promote and drive various initiatives and efforts to support a sustainable environmental, social and economic development of the Baltic Sea Region;

and to enhance the visibility of the Baltic Sea Region and its issues in a wider European context.

1.4 The objectives and decisions of the BSPC are geared to initiate and guide political activities in the Baltic Sea Region, endowing them with additional democratic legitimacy and parliamentary authority with a particular focus on contributing to security, prosperity and a sound and sustainable status for its environment;

initiate all necessary measures ensuring the security of the peoples and the defence of the democratic values and democracies of its Member States.

The BSPC and its members are convinced of the need to protect free and independent media, including combatting disinformation and fake news;

support and strengthen democratic institutions in the participating states;

improve dialogue between governments, parliaments and civil society;

strengthen the common identity of the Baltic Sea Region by means of close co-operation between national and regional parliaments with legislative powers on the basis of equality;

intensify people-to-people contacts on all levels – parliaments, governments and civil society – as the backbone for peace, prosperity and the protection of the environment in the Region;

promote the exchange among and the inclusion of the youth and young people as a prerequisite for guaranteeing and securing the foundations of the Baltic Sea Region for future generations as well;

promote equal opportunities, gender equity and diversity in our societies.

1.5 The BSPC may consider any matter of specific interest and relevance for the Baltic Sea Region, and may, if needed, give its opinion on such issues.

2. Participants

2.1 The Baltic Sea Parliamentary Conference shall be composed of members of the national parliaments, regional parliaments with legislative powers and parliamentary organisations around the Baltic Sea (state or supranational parliaments, regional parliaments with legislative powers, parliamentary bodies and organisations).

Adherence to and advocacy for compliance with the recognised rules of international law are a sine qua non for participation and cooperation in the BSPC and its work.

Members of the BSPC must adhere to the fundamentals, core principles, mission and objectives of the BSPC, as stated in the BSPC Statutes and Rules of Procedure and other basic documents.

If a Member State blatantly violates the aforementioned foundations and principles by flagrant violation of the rules of international law, the member or members from that country may, by decision of the remaining members in the BSPC, be suspended from membership for an indefinite period and all cooperation with those members may be frozen.

Such a decision includes the suspension from the Annual Conference, the meetings of the BSPC working bodies, proceedings, work and projects of the BSPC and freezing of any joint activities with them until cooperation under the fundamental principles of international law will once again become possible. It can be taken by the Standing Committee of the BSPC with immediate effect and must be confirmed by the Annual Conference to be permanent.

Any amendment to the decision about a suspension requires

- * a recommendation of the Standing Committee to the Annual Conference and
- * a final decision by the Annual Conference.

If the flagrant violation of international law and the foundations and principles of the BSPC continues unabated over a longer period of time and there is no decision of the member(s) to withdraw from the BSPC, affected by the suspension, one of the next Annual Conferences may unanimously decide on the total expulsion of the member(s).

Any future conferment of membership also requires a recommendation of the Standing Committee to the Annual Conference and a final decision by the Annual Conference.

A list of eligible member parliaments and parliamentary organisations is attached in Annex 1.

2.2 Other institutions or organisations can be granted observer status to the BSPC. A list of observers is attached in Annex 2. Guidelines for Observers are detailed in section 9 below.

3. Decision-Making

3.1 Decision-making in the BSPC bodies is made by consensus among the members present in a given meeting or in the Conference. Abstentions do not disrupt consensus.

3.2 In matters pertaining to economic and financial issues of the BSPC, decision-making rights include only those member parliaments which pay financial contributions to the BSPC Joint Financing Mechanism.

4. Presidency

4.1 The BSPC is headed by a presidency, consisting of a President and two Vice Presidents. The mandate of the presidency runs from the closure of the Annual Conference until the closure of the following Conference.

4.2 The President is, as a rule, proposed by the parliament hosting the upcoming Conference.

4.3 The President and Vice President for the upcoming Conference are appointed by the Standing Committee at its meeting in connection with the Annual Conference.

5. Annual Conference

5.1 Conferences shall be held annually.

5.2 The venue follows the principle of rotation. All national and regional member parliaments can offer to host the Conference.

5.3 Parliamentary delegations may consist of up to 5 delegates or their substitutes from each member parliament and parliamentary organisation. Where appropriate, the size of delegation as well as the kind and number of additional participants should be decided by the Standing Committee in consultation with the Host Parliament.

5.4 The Host Parliament issues invitations to the Conference. In cooperation with the BSPC Secretariat, the host is responsible for practical arrangements, necessary documentation, press coverage and the conference report.

5.5 The Host Parliament and the BSPC Secretariat agree on a cost-sharing formula for expenditures for practical arrangements in connection with the Conference (premises, interpretation, travel costs for external experts, documentation, catering etc.). All participants cover their own costs for taking part in the Conference.

5.6 The programme, agenda and chairing procedures of the Conference are elaborated in consultation between the Standing Committee and the Host Parliament.

5.7 The working language of the Conference is English. Interpretation may also be provided into other languages whenever possible.

5.8 After introductory statements and presentations in the part-sessions, the floor is opened for debate. Only parliamentarians and speakers who are listed in the programme are entitled to take the floor. At the discretion of the chairperson of the part-session, other participants may be allowed to take the floor.

5.9 Decisions and adoptions in plenary session are made by consensus. Abstentions do not disrupt the consensus. Dissenting views may be explained in the plenary session.

5.10 The Conference Resolution is prepared and adopted in accordance with the procedures detailed in section 7 below. The adopted Resolution shall be submitted to the governments of the Baltic Sea Region, the CBSS and the EU, and disseminated to other relevant national, regional and local stakeholders in the Baltic Sea Region and its neighbourhood.

6. Standing Committee

6.1 The BSPC Standing Committee is the highest decision-making body of the BSPC between the Annual Conferences. The Standing Committee considers and decides on strategic issues concerning the fundamentals, principles, mission, political priorities, working modes, finances and administration of the BSPC. Decisions on the Fundamentals and Principles as well as changes in the Statutes and Rules of Procedure must be confirmed by the Annual Conference.

6.2 The Standing Committee consists of parliamentarians from all national parliaments, regional parliaments and parliamentary organisations throughout the Baltic Sea Region (see Annex 1). Each member parliament and organisation appoints its member(s) in accordance with its own rules.

6.3 The President and Vice Presidents of the BSPC are also Chairperson and Vice Chairpersons of the Standing Committee.

- maintaining contacts and interaction with other relevant institutions and organisations in the Baltic Sea Region and its neighbourhood.

6.5 The Standing Committee convenes at least four times per year (beginning of the year, spring/summer, in connection with the Conference and in autumn). The first meeting of the year should include a report from the CBSS and could also include presentations on the status of relevant EU strategies and policies as well as the Northern Dimension.

6.6 The Standing Committee is entrusted, where appropriate, to set up ad hoc working groups or other temporary bodies, to nominate Rapporteurs on specific issues, and to call on external experts for information.

6.7 The Standing Committee serves as Drafting Committee during the Annual Conference (see section 7 below).

6.8 The working language of the Standing Committee is English.

7. Drafting Committee

7.1 The political recommendations of the annual Parliamentary Conferences are expressed in a Conference Resolution adopted by consensus by the Conference. The recommendations shall refer only to the topics of the Conference.

7.2 A draft version of the resolution drawn up by the Standing Committee forms the basis of the Drafting Committee's deliberations. A draft baseline resolution shall be forwarded to the delegations no later than six weeks prior to the Annual Conference. Motions for amendments to the draft resolution have to be submitted to the Secretariat no later than on the date agreed by the Standing Committee during its meeting in spring but in any case no later than one week before the first meeting of the Drafting Committee. Motions received after the deadline set by the Standing Committee will be disregarded.

7.3 The Standing Committee serves as Drafting Committee during the Annual Conference. A deputy is admissible only in case the appointed member is prevented from attending. The deputy must be a parliamentarian. One staff person per delegation is admitted to assist the member of the Drafting Committee in the proceedings.

9.3 Observers must adhere to the mission, objectives and principles of the BSPC, as stated in the BSPC Rules of Procedure and other basic documents;

9.4 The Annual Conference of the BSPC decides by consensus on the granting of Observer status to an applicant. A list of Observers to the BSPC Annual Conference is attached in Annex 2.

9.5 Observers are automatically invited to the annual Baltic Sea Parliamentary Conference. They are subject to the general Conference rules. Parliamentarians belonging to the Observers have the right to speak at the Conference.

9.6 Observers may, subject to a decision by the BSPC President or the Chairperson of a BSPC Working Group, be invited to attend the activities of other BSPC bodies than the Conference. Observers are not entitled to take part in the decision-making procedures in any of the BSPC bodies.

9.7 Observers are encouraged to take an active interest in the issues of the BSPC and to contribute to the dissemination of BSPC resolutions and other statements and opinions.

9.8 The Standing Committee of the BSPC has the right to review and, if deemed appropriate, suspend and freeze or annul the Observer status of a body.

The remuneration of the BSPC Secretary General and the operating costs of the Secretariat are financed jointly by all national and regional parliaments of the BSPC.

10.4 The Standing Committee decides on a new appointment of the BSPC Secretary General based on a public vacancy announcement in line with a self-imposed procedure.
